

Explanation task

Voltage divider : is a way that can be use to control the voltage between 2 resistance and it works by changing the resistance ohms

LDR : is a electronic device that changes its resistance according to the light that target it it has a really big resistance in light and a really small resistance in dark